• The value of cryptocurrencies. The trading strategy, specially designed for making deals with different types of cryptocurrencies is easily adjusted depending on the situation on the market, so every trading day we close with a positive balance.

Based on these factors, we at Colobantrade decided to attract private investments, which will significantly increase the volume of transactions. This, in turn, will lead to a multiple increase in the total profit of the company, which is proportionally distributed among all investment members.
